

Partnered with Meiko, during an £80m restoration of this 5* London hotel

Followed by a short overview of the problem and any challenges that came with it

Issue

The exclusive Langham London Hotel is known for its exceptional level of service and outstanding range of European and traditional British recipes. During its £80m restoration, Meiko UK brought in Plasma Clean to ensure odours from the food waste were kept to an absolute minimum.

Solution

Meiko UK chose a Plasma Clean Xtract 2100 system to work alongside the storage tanks. Our small-footprint Xtract system releases ozone directly into the kitchen ventilation system. It then works directly on cooking odours.

Result

The Xtract 2100 has resulted in great success in preventing odours escaping.
